Getting Skipily From Listed to Live

A 90-day activation programme for Europe's boat-owner platform

Prepared for Lennart Padberg, SKIPILY GmbH

NEW DELHI | FRANKFURT | DUBLIN | SINGAPORE | TORONTO

Before We Propose Anything, Here's What We Understood

Four things we took away from our introductory call — and everything in this proposal is built around them.

On the Product

Skipily is live. iOS app, web app for Android, six languages, functional vendor self-service and inventory integration. The build is not the problem.

On the Team

Both founders hold full-time roles. Skipily runs on evenings and weekends. Any partner must operate with minimal day-to-day oversight — bringing the thinking, not just the hands.

On the Audience

Two distinct groups — boat owners as end users, and yards, workshops, sailmakers and dealers as service providers. They need different messages, different channels, and different proof.

On the Ask

Professional social content for Facebook and Instagram — roughly eight reels a month, plus statics and stories. A costed menu to choose from. German-speaking account support.

We've built this proposal around all four — including the constraint that your time is the scarcest resource in the business.

An Honest Read of the Current Position

Strong

A genuinely differentiated mechanic: 1:1 parts matching via article number, with original, derivative and alternative clearly separated. Nothing else in the market does this cleanly. The auto-generated service enquiry briefing — brand, model, serial number, measurements, photos, in six languages — is hard to copy and solves a real friction point. The product is shipped and working.

Unproven

~5,000 service providers logged, but few actively selling. Listings are not a marketplace. No visible social proof anywhere — no named yards, no owner testimonials, no coverage numbers. Provider coverage density by region is unknown externally. A skipper in Croatia who opens a thin map churns on day one.

Missing

The provider side — the side that pays €79–199/month — has one paragraph and a mailto link on the website. No demand-creation motion. Nobody is searching for "boat maintenance app" because nobody knows the category exists.

Skipily Is Two Products Wearing One Coat

Look at the pricing page and the business model becomes obvious.

Boat Owner	Service Provider
€1.99 – €4.99 / month	€79 – €199 / month

> The boat-owner app is not a revenue line. It is the demand engine that makes provider subscriptions worth paying for.

That is a 40x to 100x gap. The consumer app will not fund this business at any realistic scale in a niche this size. It was never meant to. Once you accept that, the marketing priorities reorder themselves completely. Owner acquisition matters because it creates enquiry volume. Enquiry volume is what converts a free listing into a paying Provider Pro account. Marketing that grows owners without routing enquiries to providers builds an audience, not a business.

Everything in this proposal is sequenced against that logic.

5,000 Listings. Almost No Sellers.

This is the single most important number from our call — and it is the classic marketplace cold-start failure. A listing that was imported or scraped does not know it exists. It has no login, no onboarding, no reason to check a dashboard, and no relationship with Skipily. It will never upgrade to €79 a month on its own.

They Don't Know They're Listed

No outreach has told them. Their profile exists in a product they've never opened.

They Don't See the Value

A yard owner needs to know what a Skipily enquiry is worth in euros, not what features the portal has.

They See No Demand

No enquiries have arrived, so the platform looks empty. Owners and providers are each waiting for the other.

Nobody Has Asked Them

There has been no provider-facing campaign at all. Silence is not a strategy.

Those 5,000 listings are the most valuable underused asset in the business. Activating even 2% at Provider Pro is roughly €95,000 in annual recurring revenue.

Who We're Actually Talking To

AUDIENCE A — BOAT OWNERS

The Profile

45–70, predominantly male, Northern and Central Europe. Owns a 28–45ft sail or motor boat, often for decades. Financially comfortable but not extravagant — will happily spend €800 on a new impeller assembly and refuse €4.99/month on an app unless the value is unmistakable. Uses WhatsApp daily, active in Facebook owner groups, watches YouTube sailing channels. Does not download apps speculatively.

What Frustrates Them

- Losing an entire Saturday identifying the right part number for a fifteen-year-old engine
- Explaining the same boat details to a yard for the fourth time
- Discovering a service was overdue only after something failed
- Being quoted blind by a yard that has never seen the equipment

What Earns Their Trust

Specificity. A post naming the Yanmar 3JH5E and showing the exact impeller is worth more than fifty polished brand films. Peer endorsement beats advertising. Slow, clear demonstration beats fast, stylish editing.

> This audience does not want to be marketed to. They want to be shown something useful by someone who clearly knows boats.

The Side That Pays

AUDIENCE B — SERVICE PROVIDERS

The Profile

Owner-operator or manager of a yard, workshop, sailmaker, chandlery or marine dealer. Typically 5–40 employees. Runs on a booked calendar and word of mouth. Deeply sceptical of platforms — has been burned by directory listings and lead-gen sites that charged monthly and delivered tyre-kickers.

What They Care About, In Order

1. Will this bring me jobs I would not otherwise have won?
2. How much admin does it cost me?
3. What does it cost, and when does it pay back?

Features, portals and APIs are a distant fourth.

When to Reach Them

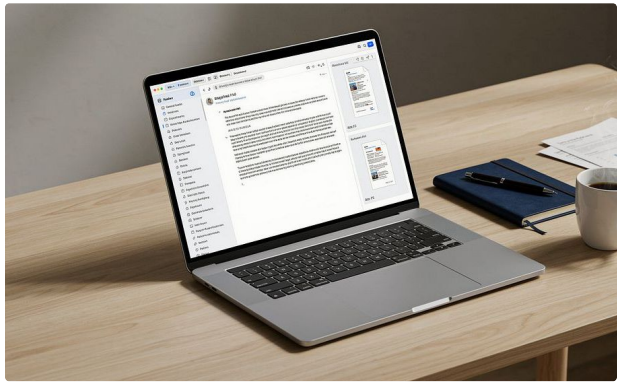

October to February. Fully occupied in season, hungry off-season. Timing of outreach matters enormously — this is when a yard owner has time to read your email and worry about next year's bookings.

The Argument That Lands

A Skipily enquiry arrives pre-briefed — brand, model, serial number, photos, measurements, maintenance history. No back-and-forth to establish what the customer even owns. That is a qualified job, not a lead. One gearbox service pays for a full year of Provider Pro.

A Two-Track Activation Programme

You asked for social content. We're proposing something slightly wider — because content alone will not move the number that matters.

Track A — Provider Activation

Turning 5,000 listings into paying accounts. Direct outreach, provider-facing assets, a proper provider landing page, LinkedIn presence. This is where revenue lives and where results are measurable within weeks.

Track B — Owner Acquisition

Building enquiry volume in one region, properly. The Facebook and Instagram content you briefed — but geographically concentrated rather than spread thin, so the map an owner opens is actually dense.

Track B creates enquiries. Enquiries are the proof point Track A uses to convert providers. Track A creates coverage. Coverage stops Track B users from churning. Run separately, both underperform. Run together, each feeds the other.

Waking Up 5,000 Dormant Listings

TRACK A — PROVIDER ACTIVATION

1 Provider Landing Page

A real page, not a paragraph. ROI framing in euros, a sample qualified enquiry shown in full, coverage map, onboarding time, pricing clarity, and an FAQ addressing the "I've been burned by directories" objection.

2 Provider Explainer Video — 90 Seconds

2D motion graphics showing a single enquiry landing in the portal and being answered. German and English versions. This is the asset that does the selling when you're not in the room.

3 ROI One-Pager (PDF, German + English)

The single most useful sales tool for a yard owner. "One gearbox job pays for six months." Printable, emailable, attachable.

4 Cold Outreach Sequence — Email + LinkedIn

Segmented by provider type and region. Written in German for DACH, English elsewhere. Six-touch sequence with clear opt-out, leveraging our existing n8n-based outbound workflow for DACH.

5 LinkedIn Company Page — Two Posts Weekly

Provider-facing. Case-style content as real yards activate, coverage milestones, category education. This is a B2B sale and should be run like one.

Why this track first: Provider activation is measurable in 30 days. Owner brand building is measurable in 6 months. Starting here gives you evidence early and buys the programme its own credibility.

One Region, Done Properly

TRACK B — OWNER ACQUISITION

The recommendation: concentrate, don't spread. Marketing Skipily across all of Europe right now is actively counterproductive. A Croatian skipper who installs the app and finds four providers near their marina will uninstall it and never return — permanently lost, along with every owner they would have told.

> Proposed pilot region: Germany — Baltic coast and inland waterways

Paid Social

Facebook and Instagram. Interest and behaviour targeting on boat ownership, sailing and marine equipment, layered with geographic radius around major marinas. Modest budget, tight geography, high frequency.

Owner Communities

German sailing and motorboat Facebook groups, engine-specific communities, regional club pages. Founders seed content personally — a founder posting in an owner group converts; an agency posting gets removed.

Organic Social

Eight reels monthly plus statics and stories, per your brief. Content produced by us, published on schedule, formatted for feed and reels separately.

Offline Anchors

Marina noticeboards, yacht club partnerships, boot Düsseldorf and regional shows, chandlery counter cards. We'll design the collateral — these will likely outperform paid social per euro in this category.

What Skipily Should Actually Say

The Problem With the Current Positioning

Current hero: "Dein Boot. Dein Assistent. Deine Community."

Three generic nouns. Community isn't a feature anywhere in the product. It could describe any app in any category. Meanwhile, the site marks 1:1 parts matching as einzigartig in der Branche — unique in the industry — and buries it at position two.

One Structural Recommendation

Split the website into two front doors. Owner and provider are different products, different buyers, different funnels. Serving both from one homepage means serving neither well.

The Reframe

Lead with the specific rescue, not the category. Owners don't want "boat organisation" — they want to stop losing Saturdays to part numbers.

Direction to Explore

Nie wieder den falschen Impeller.
The right part, the right yard, the first time.

Owner Hierarchy

- Find the exact part — original or verified 1:1 equivalent
- Send a complete service enquiry in ten seconds
- Never miss a maintenance interval again

Provider Hierarchy

- Receive fully briefed enquiries — no back-and-forth
- Be found at the exact moment of need
- One job pays for the year

What We'll Actually Make

Five content pillars — each with a defined purpose, audience, and format. Every piece of content maps to one of these before production begins.

1

Fix It Faster — 40%

Parts-matching hero content. Real equipment, real part numbers, real searches. Screen-capture led, slow and legible. Audience: owners. Format: reels, carousels.

2

Before It Breaks — 20%

Maintenance intervals, seasonal checklists, winterising, spring commissioning. Useful even to non-users — which is exactly why it earns reach. Audience: owners. Format: infographics, carousels, reels.

Know Your Boat — 15%

Equipment education. What an impeller does and when it fails. Engine-brand-specific explainers. Builds the credibility everything else depends on. Audience: owners. Format: 2D motion graphics.

4

The Yard's View — 15%

Provider stories, yard spotlights, what a good enquiry looks like from the other side. Doubles as provider social proof and owner trust-building. Audience: both. Format: interview-led, statics.

5

Skipily in Use — 10%

Product demonstration. Deliberately unglamorous, slowly paced, screen-recorded. For a cautious 60-year-old skipper, watching the app used clearly is worth more than any brand film. Audience: owners.

We recommend against 3D and heavily stylised brand film at this stage. For this audience, polish reads as marketing, and marketing reads as risk. Clean 2D motion graphics and honest screen capture will convert better and cost significantly less.

The Production Menu

Per-unit rates for all content formats. All video formats include one round of revisions. Additional rounds quoted on request. Source files provided.

Format	Description	Duration	Rate (EUR)
2D Motion Graphics	Animated explainer, custom illustration, brand-consistent	30–45s	€500
2D Motion Graphics (Extended)	Longer explainer, ideal for provider education	60–90s	€900
Screen-Capture Demo	Product walkthrough, edited, captioned, voiceover	30–60s	€400
Infographic Reel	Animated data or checklist format	20–30s	€350
Static Infographic	Single-image, multilingual variants available	—	€50
Carousel Post	5–8 frames, fully designed	—	€90
Whiteboard Video	Hand-drawn explainer style	60–90s	€400
Live-Action Edit	From client- or provider-supplied footage	30–60s	€800
Live-Action Shoot	On-location, requires travel — quoted per project	—	POA
3D Video	Not recommended at this stage — see Slide 12	30s	€1500
Story Frames	Batch of 5, fully designed	—	€400

Voice, Language and Localisation

Voiceover Options

Option	Notes	Rate
AI-generated voice	Fast, consistent, multilingual. Strong in German + English. Recommended for volume content.	€80
Professional VO — German ♂	Native speaker. Recommended for provider-facing and hero content.	€250
Professional VO — German ♀	Native speaker.	€300
Professional VO — English	Native speaker, neutral European English.	€150
No voiceover	Text-on-screen and captions only. Strong for social feeds where most viewing is muted.	Included

Language Strategy

The platform supports six languages. Marketing should not — yet.

01

Phase 1 — Pilot

German primary, English secondary. Everything else waits.

02

Phase 2 — Expansion

Add Dutch and French once provider density justifies it in those markets.

> Language expansion should follow provider coverage, never lead it. Producing six-language content for markets where the map is thin spends budget generating churn.

Channel Management Scope

What's included in the monthly retainer — everything runs without requiring your daily involvement.

Strategy & Planning

Monthly content calendar delivered for approval by the 25th of the preceding month. Platform-specific adaptation — the same asset formatted correctly for feed, reels and stories. Captions and hashtags in German and English.

Publishing & Scheduling

All scheduling and publishing handled by us. Optimal timing based on audience behaviour, reviewed monthly. No action required from your side.

Community Management

Comment and DM response, Monday to Friday. Technical questions escalated to you with a target 24-hour response. Marine content generates technical enquiries — we prepare for this from day one.

Paid Social Management

Campaign build, audience setup, creative variants, ongoing optimisation and budget pacing. Media spend billed direct from your account — we don't mark up media.

Channels In Scope

- Facebook — primary, owner audience
- Instagram — secondary, owner audience
- LinkedIn — provider audience, separate content stream

Explicitly Out of Scope

- TikTok — wrong demographic
- Snapchat — wrong demographic

Monthly performance report with commentary (not just numbers) + 45-minute review call included.

How the First Quarter Runs

Month 1 — Foundation

- Kick-off and strategy workshop (90 min, technical founder present)
- Provider density audit by region
- Messaging platform and tone of voice finalised
- Provider landing page copy and design delivered
- ROI one-pager delivered, German and English
- Outreach sequence written and loaded

Month 2 — Launch

- Provider outreach sequence live — first 1,000 contacts, segmented
- Provider explainer video delivered
- Owner content begins publishing — 8 reels, statics, stories
- Paid social launches in pilot region, learning phase
- Community seeding protocol handed to founders

Month 3 — Optimise

- Outreach expands to next 2,000 contacts based on Month 2 data
- Creative iteration on best- and worst-performing content
- First provider activation case study produced
- Quarterly review and Phase 2 recommendation

Provider activation results should be visible by end of Month 2. Owner-side brand results build more slowly — expect meaningful signal at Month 4–6, not Month 1.

Three Ways to Start

Feature	PILOT	GROWTH ★ Recommended	FULL ACTIVATION
Monthly	€1800	€3800	€5500
Minimum Term	3 months	3 months	6 months
Video content	4 / month	8 / month	12 / month
Static posts	4 / month	8 / month	12 / month
Stories	8 / month	16 / month	24 / month
FB + IG Management	✓	✓	✓
LinkedIn Provider Stream	—	✓	✓
Provider Landing Page	—	✓	✓
Provider Explainer Video	—	✓	✓
Outreach Sequence	—	1,000 contacts	3,000 contacts
Paid Social Management	—	✓	✓
Boat Show Collateral	—	—	✓

We recommend Growth. Pilot covers the content you briefed but leaves the provider side — the side that generates revenue — entirely untouched. Growth is the smallest package that runs both tracks, which is the only configuration where either one works properly. Media spend is not included in any package and is billed direct from your account.

Or Build Your Own

Every deliverable is available individually. Use this as a reference to construct a custom scope — all à-la-carte selections are quoted without the package discount.

Strategy & Brand

Item	Rate (EUR)
Messaging & positioning platform	€500
Content strategy & 3-month calendar	€3000
Provider density & market audit	€1200
Competitive landscape review	€1400

Provider Activation Assets

Item	Rate (EUR)
Provider landing page — copy + design	€1800
ROI one-pager, bilingual	€1500
Outreach sequence — 6 touches, segmented	€2400
Contact enrichment & list build, per 1,000	€1200

Channel Management (per month)

Item	Rate (EUR/mo)
Facebook + Instagram management	€1500
LinkedIn management	€1200

Website & SEO (Phase 2)

Item	Rate (EUR)
Technical SEO audit	€1500
AEO / GEO — AI search visibility	€2500 / Monthly
Website restructure — owner/provider split	POA

The Team, and What We Need From You

Your Team at UnFoldMart

- German-speaking account lead — Name will be shared post account onboarding, based Frankfurt. Your single point of contact for all coordination, calls and approvals. Native German, fully briefed.
- Content strategist — owns the calendar, messaging and performance interpretation.
- Motion & design team — production, based New Delhi. Two-day turnaround on revisions.
- Performance lead — paid social and outreach optimisation.
- Founder oversight — Abhishek Garg, monthly strategy review.

What We Need From You

- One 45-minute technical session per month with the technical founder. Marine content lives or dies on specificity — "check your engine" versus "the 3JH5E impeller should be inspected every 200 hours" is the difference between content this audience ignores and content it shares.
- Approval within 3 working days on calendars and creative. We batch approvals to minimise your load.
- Founder participation in owner communities. Content from us, posting from you. A founder in a sailing group is welcome; an agency gets removed.
- Access: Meta Business Manager, LinkedIn page admin, provider database export, App Store Connect for review monitoring.

Everything else runs without you. That's the point.

What Success Looks Like, and How We Start

Primary — Provider Side

- Providers activated from dormant listing to logged-in account
- Providers converted to paid Starter or Pro
- Enquiries received per active provider

Primary — Owner Side

- App installs attributable to campaign
- Registration rate — install to Free+ account
- Equipment entries created per user (the leading indicator of retention)
- Service enquiries sent through the platform

What We Won't Optimise For

Follower count. In a niche this size, a small engaged audience of actual boat owners is worth more than a large audience of anyone else.

Next Steps

01

Review This Proposal

Select a package or build a custom scope from the à-la-carte menu.

02

Follow-Up Call

With the UnFoldMart social and content team — two working days' notice as agreed.

03

Confirm the Pilot Region

Using your provider density data to validate the Germany recommendation.

04

Kick-Off Workshop

90 minutes, technical founder present. Production begins within 5 working days.
